No	Title	Author	Country	Journal	study type
2010-1	Selection of acute blood purification therapy according to severity score and blood lactic acid value in patients with septic shock	Sakamoto Y et al.	Japan	Indian J Crit Care Med (2010) 14(4):175-179	observational study
2010-2	PEDF and septic shock.	Nakamura T et al.	Japan	Curr Mol Med (2010) 10(3):312-6	review
2010-3	Apheresis of activated leukocytes with an immobilized polymyxin B filter in patients with septic shock.	Kumagai T et al.	Japan	Shock (2010) 34(5):461-6	observational study
2010-4	Effectiveness of endotoxin scattering photometry for determining the efficacy of polymyxin B-immobilized fiber treatment in septic shock: report of a case.	Sakamoto Y et al.	Japan	J Nippon Med Sch (2010) 77(2):119-22	case report
2010-5	Effects of hemoperfusion with an immobilized polymyxin-B fiber column on cytokine plasma levels in patients with abdominal sepsis.	Zagli G et al.	Italy	Minerva Anesthesiol (2010) 76(6):405-12	observational study
2010-6	Clinical results of treatment of postsurgical endotoxin-mediated sepsis with polymyxin-B direct hemoperfusion.	Novelli G et al.	Italy	Transplant Proc (2010) 42(4):1021-4	observational study
2010-7	Effectiveness of early start of direct hemoperfusion with polymyxin B-immobilized fiber columns judging from stabilization in circulatory dynamics in surgical treatment patients.	Sakamoto Y et al.	Japan	Indian J Crit Care Med (2010) 14(1):35-9	observational study
2010-8	Early recovery in hemodynamics after direct hemoperfusion with polymyxin B-immobilized fibers may predict mortality rate in patients with septic shock.	Kobayashi A et al.	Japan	J Anesth (2010) 24(5):709-15	observational study
